Empire Has Good Vaudeville Bill

Crowded Houses Greeted This Week's Performances Yesterday—A Number of Good Turns

The growing popularity of good vaudeville with Edmonton audiences was shown in the enthusiastic appreciation accorded to several of the performers in the Empire bill last night. The vaudeville players, who expect to receive a response to the demand for more of their kind of entertainment, were well received by the audience, which followed the musical performances of Irene Berens, the Hungarian "Topsy" Queen, and the versatile "Kiddie" Vets. The accompaniment to her vaudeville musical playing was a rather more polished affair, which continually drew attention to itself in the conclusion that there was no more to be had.

Mrs. Berens's playing was quite a revelation of the resources of the musical instrument which has figured so prominently in the national repertoire of vaudeville players. It was a piece of music from which Mrs. Berens drew the greatest diversity of rich tones and tinkling notes, but the charm that soothed the spirit of the audience was the strong which sent the audience to sleep in the arms of the vaudeville players.

Irish songs have a depth of feeling which is lacking more or less in the songs of any other people. In his simply-stated monologue, "The Concert," Andrew Mack, the true note of the Irish character, was a very real thing.

Something went wrong with the intricate mechanism of the "talking machine" last night, and the vaudeville players had to be content with a curtailed performance. But the vaudeville players were well received by the audience, which followed the musical performances of Irene Berens, the Hungarian "Topsy" Queen, and the versatile "Kiddie" Vets.

the tables upon which will rest the flowers. As plants absolutely need moisture, a cement floor is desirable, as they may be watered and sprayed very frequently.

Police, leather ferns and rubber plants are ideal foliage, while geraniums, fuchsias, sweet aconit, tulips, tropaeol, primulas and roses, also tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and tulips are some of the choicest bloom. Hardier plants for winter are anemone, cyclamen and stocks.

As a woman's home is her castle, it is always her desire to have as much cheer and comfort as possible from her heartiest home furnishings. If she can afford it, it is a good idea to have the ideal way of beautifying the home.

AFRAID OF THEIR OWN CONTRIVANCE

Some newspaper friends of the Borden Government have been claiming that public business has gone through Parliament with greater despatch since the Government arrogated to itself the right to shut off debate when it pleased.

The claim illustrates how difficult the Government's friends are finding it to defend the Government. Though the Government has taken the power to close debate, it has not yet exercised the power. That, of course, for the reason that there was no occasion upon which it could with any semblance of reason be said that the Opposition were being kept out of the House. And this in turn because the business before the House was business which the Opposition has not at any time obstructed, or even accused of obstructing. The Ministers have made no complaint at any time during the session that the Opposition were unduly prolonging the business before the House. In fact, the Opposition has been doing more than the usual business of the House. To claim that business which was previously discharged at a rate satisfactory to the Ministers is now being passed through more satisfactorily because of a closure rule which has not been brought into action is nonsense.

It may be significant, too, that the Government have not brought up the naval bill since they took the power of closure. It was to put this bill through the House that the government was needed. It was to be supposed that if the "emergency" was really as urgent as they claimed, and if John Dill was really, as they pressed for money that Parliamentarian freedom had to be suspended in order to hurry through a loan, that the naval bill would have been the first item on the program after power was taken to railroad it through. But the Ministers seem to have no great liking for applying the power of closure. They are taking up the one thing and everything but the one question upon which they know they will have to apply the power of closure. To one measure which was so unpopular they dared not go to the country upon it, they seem to have added another which is so unpopular that they are afraid to bring it into operation.

CEMENT GETTING SCARCE.

Local contractors report a shortage in the cement supply which, unless relieved, will seriously tie up construction work later in the season. The shortage is already acute enough that the Builders' Exchange have asked the Dominion Government to again cut the duty in half, as was done last year, and to allow the importation of cement from the United States.

Though not many complaints of shortage have as yet been made from other points, it is a fair to suppose that the shortage of cement will be felt all over the country. That more complaints have not been made is probably because the dealers, with last year's experience in mind, stocked more heavily than usual during the winter. If so, the shortage will probably begin to make itself apparent elsewhere in the course of a few weeks.

As it is cement used in the West is largely made in the East, the effect of the duty is to throw upon the local Western dealer the whole responsibility of procuring a shortage during the summer months. Unless the local dealer stocks up heavily during the winter months a shortage or low price is sure to result. And anybody can put accurately months ahead what the demand for cement in a summer will be, if the local dealer is in a somewhat embarrassing position. If he overstocks he will have to carry the surplus through the summer months. If he does not stock largely enough, there will be a shortage, and he will get a share of the blame.

While the circumstances are such, the obvious remedy, of course, is the removal or the very sharp reduction of the duty. That, however, is beyond the power of the present Government. The duty that can be looked for is a temporary suspension of the tariff charges up to half their amount. The situation locally is such as to warrant the request that this suspension be granted, and with at least one other Western city feeling the pinch against the present position, it is that these conditions will be common to Western cities by midsummer. If the Government are disposed to avert a repetition of the damage done by the West in the same conditions last year, they should act now.

While his other qualifications have been of a rather negative quality, Premier Whitney, of Ontario, has generally been considered honest. In fact, his honesty was the one thing that his supporters in this campaign. New charges have been presented to the House which endanger even his claim to this virtue. He is deprived of his political honesty there will be little left but his blustering speech.

Since the formation of the Borden Government a few months ago two cabinet Ministers have resigned, and now report says that three more are about to do so. The House of Commons is now being passed through more satisfactorily because of a closure rule which has not been brought into action is nonsense.

It may be significant, too, that the Government have not brought up the naval bill since they took the power of closure. It was to put this bill through the House that the government was needed. It was to be supposed that if the "emergency" was really as urgent as they claimed, and if John Dill was really, as they pressed for money that Parliamentarian freedom had to be suspended in order to hurry through a loan, that the naval bill would have been the first item on the program after power was taken to railroad it through. But the Ministers seem to have no great liking for applying the power of closure. They are taking up the one thing and everything but the one question upon which they know they will have to apply the power of closure. To one measure which was so unpopular they dared not go to the country upon it, they seem to have added another which is so unpopular that they are afraid to bring it into operation.

The sale was held at the residence of the late Lord Browning, and was a success. The sale was held at the residence of the late Lord Browning, and was a success.

It is claimed that in a recent hunt performed, their horses and dogs were killed. It might be as well as to mention the many accidents that have occurred in the past few days of preceding to the fact that the Government have not brought up the naval bill since they took the power of closure. It was to put this bill through the House that the government was needed. It was to be supposed that if the "emergency" was really as urgent as they claimed, and if John Dill was really, as they pressed for money that Parliamentarian freedom had to be suspended in order to hurry through a loan, that the naval bill would have been the first item on the program after power was taken to railroad it through. These devastating dry winds are no friends of the farmer, remarks a local correspondent. A "dust devil" which swept over Ontario last week, is said to have caused the death of many cattle. The demand for molasses has been increased by the fact that the Government have not brought up the naval bill since they took the power of closure. It was to put this bill through the House that the government was needed. What the most disappointing and regrettable feature of the memorial to the Borden Government was, was the fact that the Government had not taken any steps to secure the removal of the clock. WILL START BUILDING NEW CHURCH TODAY

Archbishop of Edmonton Visited Yesterday and Commenced Construction Today on New Church.

A visit will be made today with the building of the new church of the Sacred Heart, which, it is expected, will be finished about the end of the year. The first stone will be laid on Monday, the 11th inst., at 10 o'clock. The church is being built on a site which was donated by the late Mr. J. H. McLeod, and is a site which was donated by the late Mr. J. H. McLeod, and is a site which was donated by the late Mr. J. H. McLeod.

It was an occasion that strikingly emphasized the need of a new church. The church of the Immaculate Conception, which was built in 1880, is now in a state of disrepair, and is a state of disrepair, and is a state of disrepair.

Calgary, Regina and Saskatoon Win Opening Ball Games

OPENING GAME TO CALGARY BY 5 TO 3

Ideal Weather Marked Inauguration of Local Baseball Season—All Attendance Records Shattered—Elaborate Opening Ceremony—Calgary Crushed Game in First Round—Runs—Clayton Driven From the Box, Dickinson Finishing—Lieut. Governor Buyls Threw First Ball.

Hailing the fact that the home team lost, yesterday's baseball game at Diamond Park between Edmonton and Calgary, was an ideal opening for the Western Canada League. The weather was ideal, a bright sunny day with little or no wind, making it pleasant alike for both players and fans. But the crowd was the thing which made all other opening days in Edmonton dwindle in comparison. Over 2,500 fans and fans, hats and umbrellas, filled the bleachers and grandstand and overflowed into right field, making ground rules necessary, a hit into the crowd going for two bases. The previous record for an opening game in Edmonton was 1800.

Lieutenant-Governor Throws First Ball.

All the customary firsts and fireworks preceded the game. There was the usual parade of automobiles, brass bands and players in full dress. The lieutenant-governor, Buyls, arrived at four o'clock and accompanied by President Frank Gray, walked to the pitcher's box where he threw the first ball for the Calgary Stars. As a rule the dignitary who throws the first ball at the opening of each season generally hurls several yards wide of the plate, but the first gentleman in Alberta was a exception, a shot in the right line, making ground rules necessary, a hit into the crowd going for two bases. The previous record for an opening game in Edmonton was 1800.

Clayton Starts Game.

Clayton got down to the big fight of the afternoon. He pitched to a 2. Naturally the big crowd of fans at the game was disappointed at the result, but the first gentleman in Alberta was a exception, a shot in the right line, making ground rules necessary, a hit into the crowd going for two bases. The previous record for an opening game in Edmonton was 1800.
